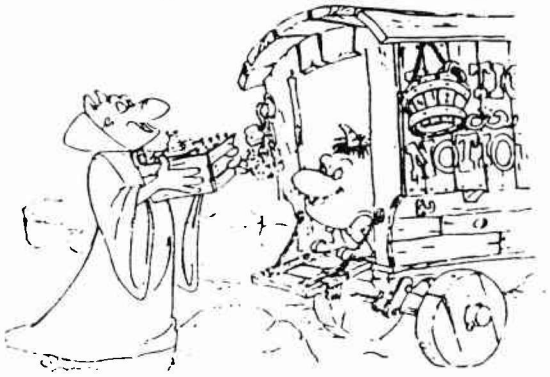
medicine wagon: (601.18) In "The Medicine Wagon," Tweeg is seeking easy riches as usual. He outfits a medicine wagon and sells phony remedies to Grubby, Gimmick, and Teddy. (see M.P. #87. magic gunk, Lorenzo, and gravitational body extender thing-a-ma-bob)This is not the same wagon that Tweeg used in the TV special. He has several wagons, and some day will probably go into the used wagon business.



MICA: Military Industrial Conquest Association. A defunct splinter group of MAVO started by the Gutangs when they were unable to take over MAVO. MICA's only project was to construct a tower fortress in southeast Grundo to control Bounder Pass. The Gutangs planned to use the tower in the upcoming invasion to trap the Southern Grundo Army when it tried to retreat through Bounder Pass, as the Illiops had done. MICA abandoned the tower when the Gutangs realized that there was no Southern Grundo Army. Shortly thereafter, the Gutangs dissolved MICA and rejoined MAVO, since the lack of internecine power struggles made MICA meetings very dull. (see Tweeg's Tower).

Mizley Meadows: See map of Grundo. In "Teddy Ruxpin's Birthday," all of Teddy's friends meet in Mizley Meadows for a game of Grungeball and a birthday picnic.

M.P.: p. #87 - (601.18) Stands for Magic Potion #87. This is a bottle of thick green liquid that Tweeg sells to Grubby. Tweeg promises that it will make him handsome, but instead it turns him green.

Moss Forest: See map of Land of Grundo. As of 601.26, the Moss Forest has not been mentioned in a software. Elves live in the forest. Legend has it that the dreaded Moss Monster lurks there.

Mrs. Ruxpin: (601.20) Teddy's mother appears in "The Day Teddy met Grubby," and in the TV special. In the TV show, she sings "Come Dream With Me Tonight" to infant Teddy.

Mudblups: (601.04, 601.12) Mudblups are walking dirt clods that live in dark tunnels beneath The Great Desert. It's not fun to meet a Mudblup.

multiplication table: (601.16) A duplicating device invented by Gimmick. It is powered by one of the crystals.

Mushroom Forest: (601.24) See map of Grundo. In "Mushroom Forest," Teddy, Grubby, and Gimmick fly there and meet the Anythings. Elves live there in the giant mushrooms. The forest is cool all year long.

King Nogburt: Father of Prince Arin and Princess Aruzia. Mentioned in "The Missing Princess." When Gimmick meets Arin, he says, "Prince Arin...the son of King Nogburt?" Nogburt rules a kingdom in western Grundo (see map of Grundo. No one is quite sure how far west the Land of Grundo continues. King Nogburt may in fact be the king of midwest Grundo). The Kingdom has an agricultural economy. Most citizens are Illiper farmers and craftspeople, (see "Illiper") but some Perloons and Persons also live there. The earthquake (see Trembly Fault) which lead to the evolution of the Mole People also destroyed the Perloon colony at the edge of The Great Desert. The Perloons who survived moved to The Kingdom of Grundo. At that time, one of Nogburt's ancestors, Filbin the Friendly, had just become the first King of Grundo. The Illipers made Filbin king after he lead them north to help the Illiops build The Great Wall of Ying.

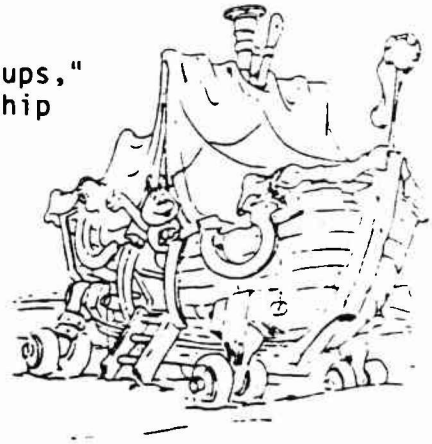
Nothings: (601.24) The old name for the "Anythings," very shy creatures who live in the Mushroom Forest. Teddy renames them Anythings because they have the amazing ability to change into any shape and color.

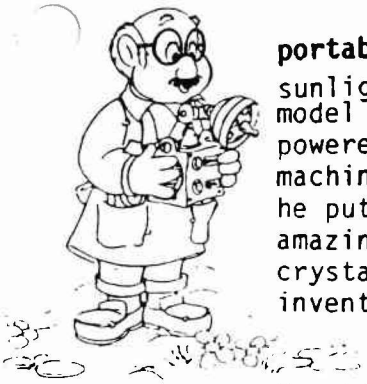
octocycle: (601.08) In "Teddy Ruxpin's Workout," Grubby explains that an octocycle has eight wheels, and he knows how to ride one. Teddy claims that there is no such thing as an octocycle. Riding an upside-down bicycle or octocycle is used to describe how to do an exercise.

Octopede: An eight-legged creature native to Octagonia, an eight sided island far off the coast of Rillonia. Grubby is an Octopede. (See "Evolution in Grundo," p.2)

Perloon: See "Evolution in Grundo." Gimmick is a Perloon. In "Mushroom Forest," when Gimmick takes Teddy & Grubby to The Great Desert in the middle of the summer, he does not realize that he is guided by ancestral Perloon instinct. Gimmick has a natural affinity for the desert, because his species developed at the edge of it. Traditionally, the Illipers viewed the Perloons as a little bit crazy. The Illiper colony was always much larger than the Perloon enclave. In the ancient days, when Illipers & Perloons were not yet separate species, the loners, independent thinkers, and social misfits gravitated away from mainstream Illiper society to the austere colony at the edge of the desert. There were never many Perloons. Some were carried off by Mudblups, and others perished in earthquakes. Also, many Perloons were too independent to form family units and have offspring. Elves and Mole People evolved from Perloons. The ruins of the ancient Perloon colony was swallowed in an earthquake, but still exists in a huge underground cavern. The Mole People know where it is.

pliable habitat: (601.4) In "Teddy and the Mudblups," Gimmick has a way to attach the air bag over the ship to make a tent.





portable reducing machine: A small version of the "artificial sunlight" reducing machine. Like the original, the portable model can shrink people to less than an inch high. It is powered by the same crystal that Gimmick plugged into the big machine. Gimmick hasn't realized that the contraptions he puts the crystals into do not have much to do with the amazing effects that are created. The effects are caused by the crystals themselves. So, very small models of crystal powered inventions are possible.

Pumpkin Parade: (601.19) A Grunge "Makin'Believe" custom. The Grunges wear pumpkins as masks, and have a parade at night in the forest. (see "Make Believe").

Rainbow Falls: (601.03 and others) Though Fobs can be found all over Grundo, most Fobs live at Rainbow Falls. Wooly often showers and plays in the falls. The brightly colored water there can turn anything that drinks it, or is submerged in it, bright colors. This is how the Fobs and Wooly get their colors. Underground streams run from Rainbow Falls to all parts of Grundo, and Fobs that live far away from the falls keep their bright colors by drinking water from the streams.

Reason: One of Gimmick's long lost brothers. The other is Rhyme.

Rhyme: One of Gimmick's long lost brothers. The other is Reason. Rhyme speaks in rhyme.

Rillonia: A continent to the south of Grundo. The Illiops settled there in olden times when the Gutangs drove them from the Hard to Find City. Grundo and Rillonia are connected by an isthmus which is only above water at certain times of the year. Thus far, "The Day Teddy met Grubby" is the only software to take place in Rillonia. In "Autumn Adventure" & "Teddy's Winter Adventure," Teddy and Grubby introduce Rillonian customs to Grundo. For more information on Illiop winter customs, see "Rillonian Crystal Celebration."

root stew: Grubby's favorite food. In "The Missing Princess," Grubby makes it for the Mudblups, and later, it is used to shoot down Gutang planes. In "Grundo Springtime Singtime" Teddy & Grubby debate the features of the dish in the song "Grubby's Roasted Root Stew."

round roots: (601.20) In "The Day Teddy met Grubby," Grubby thinks that potatoes, planted by Teddy, are wild "round roots" coincidentally growing in neat rows.

The School Tree: (601.6, 601.25) A tree that has been turned into a school. There, Leota teaches a class of Elves and Woodsprites. In "The Wooly What's-It," Wooly becomes a student in the class.

shush-bush: (601.25) A berry plant which grows wild in Gimmick's valley and other parts of Grundo. When eaten, it can cause a loss of the voice for anywhere from one hour to ten years. Grubby loses his voice when he eats some in "Sign of a Friend."

slow bug catchers: (601.4) From the song, "Warm Up Your Imagination." A bug trap that Gimmick made. Bugs got out more easily than in, so the bug catchers were turned into birds' nests.

Snail: (601.5) In "Grubby's Romance," while miniaturized, Teddy Grubby & Gimmick, meet a friendly snail in the forest who takes them to the annual bug spring dance.

soup weed: (601.25) See tastioni zestofini.

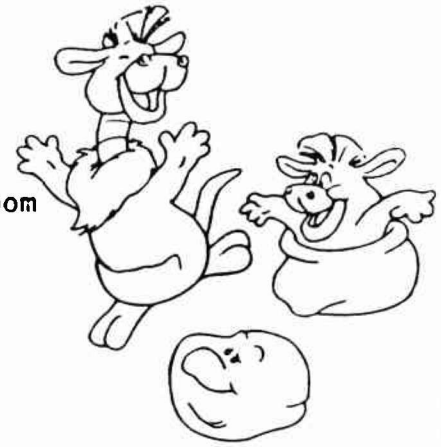
strepticoniconi pigmatoliosus: (601.25) A plant which grows wild in Gimmick's valley and other parts of Grundo. Gimmick used its crimson leaves to dye his tablecloth red.

Surf-Grunges: (601.7) In "Grunge Music," there are a few "Surf Grunges" seen with surfboards. Many Grunges enjoy surfing, and in "Grunge Music," and "Grundo Beach Party," Boomer and the other two familiar Grunge musicians also surf.

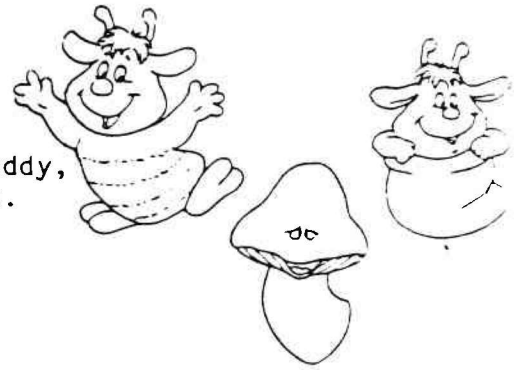
tastioni zestofini: (601.25) A plant which grows wild in Gimmick's valley and other parts of Grundo. It is an herb that Gimmick adds to soup, so it is nicknamed "soup weed."

Teddy Ruxpin: Teddy is an Illiop, a variety of creature somewhat resembling a teddy bear. Illiops come from the far off land of Rillonia. They are usually content to stay at home and carry on their daily routine of farming, weaving and country life. Teddy, on the other hand is more adventurous. He wants to go places and discover new things.

That: (601.24) One of the "Anythings" that Teddy, Grubby, and Gimmick meet in the Mushroom Forest.



The Other: (601.24) One of the "Anythings" that Teddy, Grubby, and Gimmick meet in the Mushroom Forest.



This: (601.24) The first "Anything" that Teddy, Grubby, & Gimmick meet in the Mushroom Forest. This is the bravest anything.

Treacherous Mountains: The high, purple mountain range where the Hard to Find City is located. According to the Wizard in "The Missing Princess," "no one has ever been able to climb the Treacherous Mountains." Later in that story, Wooly does climb the mountains.

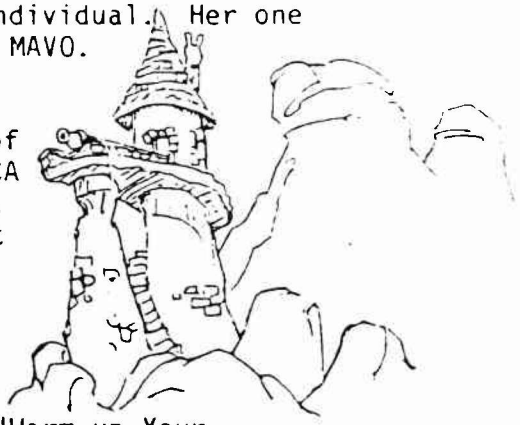
Trembly Fault: See map of Grundo. As of 601.26, Trembly Fault has not been mentioned in a software. In ancient days, a colony of Perloons lived at the edge of The Great Desert. At about the same time that some Perloons settled in the Mushroom Forest, others moved into caves in Trembly Fault. Eventually, an earthquake trapped these cave-dwelling Perloons underground. They survived there, and evolved into the Mole People.

tube fan: (601.4) From the song "Warm Up Your Imagination." A fan made by Gimmick to cool a room in summer. The fan pulled air, rather than pushing it, and the fan was turned into the vacuum duster upper.

Tweeg: (601.05 and others) Tweeg has one primary interest in life...to become rich. He is also thoroughly frustrated, since he is just as inept at becoming rich as everything else he tries. Tweeg comes by his moral and emotional instability naturally though, since he is the product of a Troll mother and a Grunge father.

Tweeg's Mom: She sends Tweeg monthly allowance checks, and is mentioned in "Tweeg and the Bounders," and "The Medicine Wagon." As of 601.26, she has not made an appearance in the software. She came from a prestigious Troll family, but her undoing came when she married a Grunge. She was very attracted to him, because somehow she sensed that they could find ultimate unhappiness together. She was right. He left her to try windsurfing off the coast of Rillonia, and has not been heard from since. Their only child, Tweeg, has been an ongoing disgrace to her whole family. Though she has constantly tried to get him to shape up, he simply has too much Grunge in him to develop a proper Troll flair for evil. She used to be a MAVO officer, but was forced to resign due to her connection to a certain inept, green individual. Her one burning ambition in life is to get Tweeg into MAVO.

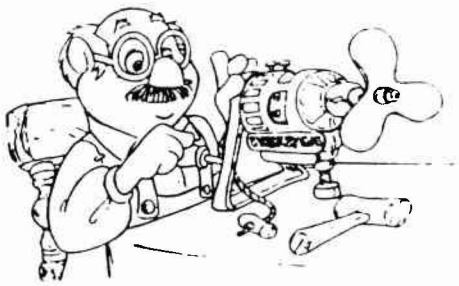
Tweeg's Tower: (601.11 and others) See map of Grundo. The tower was originally built by MICA (see MICA). It was unoccupied for many years, till Tweeg moved there after he was thrown out of Ying.



vacuum duster upper: (601.4) From the song "Warm up Your Imagination." This vacuum cleaner evolved from the tube fan, which worked backwards. (see tube fan).

Wall of Ying: Often called "The Great Wall of Ying." A wall which divides the continent of Grundo in half. It was made by the ancient Illiops, with help from the Illipers, after the Illiops built the Hard to Find City. The wall was constructed to keep the evil inhabitants of Ying from harassing the peaceful residents of the southern half of Grundo. See "A Historical Overview," pages 5 & 7. The only direct reference to the wall in softwares 601.01-601.25 is in "Grunge Music." The song "Surfin'Grundo" includes the line,"you can play a game of handball on The Great Wall of Ying."

What's-it alert: (601.6) Before Leota met Wooly, she and her students hid under their desks when Wooly walked by the School Tree.



whirly gig: (601.11) Sort of an outboard motor fan that Gimmick is building. L.B. steals it, and Tweeg uses it to mix his batch of buttermilk gold dough, resulting in a major mess.

Wiggs: (601.26) One of the Wogglies. Wiggs is the best jumper. (see Wogglies).

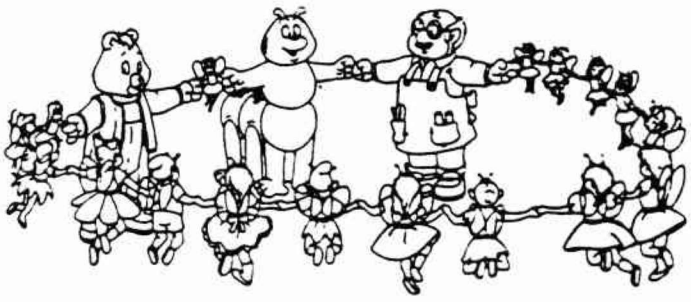
The Wizard: (601.12) If there's something you really need to know then you should see the Wizard. With his dubious mystical powers, he's likely to help...if he has the time to spend or you have the silver to spend.

woggleboggle: (601.26) The color of paint made from ground up Boggleberry tree leaves. Since the leaves change color every few minutes, the paint also changes color.

Wogglies: (601.26) Cute, furry creatures that live in the Boggleberry tree in Boggley Woods. They are about the same size as Fobs, which is not surprising since they are distant relatives of the Fobs. Wogglies talk in rhyme and have high voices, though not as high as Fobs, and they laugh a lot. Wogglies are somewhat reminiscent of rabbits, due to their long floppy ears and huge feet. They love to jump and can perform some very acrobatic maneuvers.

Woodley Bog: See map of Grundo. Although Woodley Bog is fairly close to Gimmick's valley, Gimmick has never ventured into the swampy terrain. Daring woodsprites who have flown through Woodley Bog tell tales of strange swamp creatures and whole trees sinking beneath the mire.

Woodsprite: (601.01 and others) Tiny flying "people" who live in trees. Leota and many of her students are Woodsprites.



The Wooly What's-It: (601.02 and others) The Wooly What's-It is a name which pretty much describes him...except to say that he is big, gruff and apparently dangerous.

Ying: See Land of Ying

1-2	EXT: Gimmick's	Teddy, Grubby, and Gimmick	Teddy, Grubby, and Gimmick are packing the Airship to go to the Hard to Find City to find more of the crystals. They will take the portable reducing machine.	You're right Teddy, and it's an experience that I'll never forget.	Portable Reducing Machine
3-4	EXT: Tweeg's Tower w/Gm's yard backgr.	Tweeg and L.B., Teddy, Grubby and Gimmick	Tweeg and L.B. look on thru a spy glass and wonder what is going on. Tweeg orders L.B. to go down and get rid of them somehow.	L.B. they're going to do something with that flying boat.
5-6	EXT: Gimmick's Airship	L.B., Teddy, Grubby and Gimmick in background	L.B. goes down to Gimmick's to see how he can foil the group. He discovers the portable reducing machine and jumps on the reducing button.	Why is it always me that has to do the dirty work?
7-8	EXT: Gimmick's Airship	Teddy, Grubby, Gimmick and L.B.	The Airship is suddenly very tiny having been shrunk by the reducing machine. They are carried off by the wind and manage to land in a forest... but where?	L.B. had pushed the red button on the portable reducing machine.
9-10	EXT: Forest Airship	Teddy, Grubby, Gimmick and Snail	They are lost in an unknown part of the forest and meet a snail. They ask him if he can tell them where they are and help them get home. He's not much help.	Gimmick, do you have any idea where we are?	Snail
11-12	EXT: Forest	Teddy, Grubby, Gimmick, and Snail.	The snail invites them to the annual spring dance given in the local tree hollow. He says maybe the butterflies who will be there can help them find the way home.	Oh, I'm going to the annual spring dance.
13-14	INT: Tree Hollow	Teddy, Grubby, Gimmick, Snail and a crowd of insects	They go to the dance, and Grubby sings, "Looking Back At Me".	The dance was being held inside of a hollow tree.	Tree Hollow
15-16	INT: Tree Hollow	Karen the butterfly, and Grubby	Grubby finishes, "Looking Back At Me". Grubby meets Karen and she asks him to dance. They dance together and love is in bloom.	I see you looking back at me!	Karen
17-18	EXT: Woods	Karen the butterfly, and Grubby	Grubby and Karen spend a lot of time together. (Last verse, "Looking Back At Me")	Karen and Grubby spent a lot of time together the next few days.
19-20	EXT: Woods	Teddy, Grubby, Gimmick and Karen	Grubby is very worried when Karen begins to build a shell about herself. Teddy and Gimmick realize that Karen is a caterpillar and she is making a cocoon.	When we got there Karen was building a kind of shell around herself.
21-22	EXT: Woods	Grubby, and Karen (Teddy and Gimmick in back-ground	Grubby realizes this also when Karen pops out of her cocoon as a beautiful butterfly. They ask her to lead them home and she agrees.	Karen had come out of her cocoon and she was a beautiful butterfly.
23-24	EXT: Woods and Airship	Teddy, Grubby, Gimmick and butterflies	They find their way home with the help of Karen and the butterflies. Karen pushes the enlarging button on the portable reducing machine to make them big again.	The tiny Airship took off into a calm sky.
25-26	EXT: Airship	Teddy, Grubby, Gimmick and Karen	Grubby and Karen say goodbye with regret.	Karen and the other butterflies had to fly off to fill the summer sky with beauty.
